

END ARGUMENTS
AS TO BOUNDARY

Jacob Dickenson, of American Counsel, Now Sees Vision of World's Peace.

HUMANITY GAINS

Decision Pending the Question Will Do Away with All Wars in the Future.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) London, Oct. 9.—"A settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute by the present court of arbitration will mean a triumph of humanitarian principles over war as the sole court for the determination of international differences," declared Jacob M. Dickenson of American counsel. Mr. Dickenson's address closed the arguments upon the boundary question, and at its conclusion the court adjourned until Oct. 12, when it will hold its first private session to consider the verdict.

Faith in Arbitrators. "The treaty," pointed out Mr. Dickenson, "will wholly miscarry unless at least one member decides against the contention of his own people. The faith thus manifested by Great Britain and America that justice will be exalted above the plane where the sympathies that move men have sway challenges the attention of mankind and distinguishes this hearing above all others.

"A settlement will be a triumphant epoch in history, the strongest evidence yet given that the Christian nations are tending toward the only practical realization of the dream of a parliament of nations and a confederation of the world."

Choate's Message. The speaker took up the question of American occupation of the disputed territory, urging that England never protested against it, that the questions at issue, though raised by Canadian officials in 1896, were never taken up by Great Britain until 1899, and that the fact of America's possession since 1867 cannot be disclaimed as of no importance.

Dealing with Ambassador Choate's message to Lord Lansdowne, which Attorney General Finlay quoted in evidence, Mr. Dickenson asserted that the meaning of the dispatch had been misinterpreted, and expressed regret that Mr. Choate was not before the tribunal to enlighten the members.

Foster Returns Thanks. At the close of the argument John W. Foster, agent for the United States, thanked the British government in America's name for its courtesy. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone paid a tribute to the American representatives, and the session broke up most harmoniously.

Attorney General Finlay entertained the commissioners and counsel at dinner.

Russia's Minister Is Held for Fraud—He Is Even Suspected of Murder.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Paris, Oct. 9.—The Russian, M. Mutafinski, arrested here on Oct. 1 for exploiting worthless mines in Abyssinia, turns out to be M. Nourouk, a brother-in-law of M. Witte, the president of the Russian council of ministers. M. Nourouk and "Baron de Chedouville," said to be a former officer of the Russian army, have been interrogated by the police as to their whereabouts at the time of the murder of Eugene Fougere, the demagogue, at her villa at Aix-les-Bains on Sept. 18. It is said the charge in connection with the mines is merely a pretext to detain M. Nourouk.

EXCITING RUNAWAY ON ACADEMY STREET

E. W. Lowell's Delivery Horse Broke Northwestern Gate and Wrecked Vehicle This Morning.

A horse attached to E. W. Lowell's delivery wagon began to stray away while the driver was putting up a stove in a house on Academy street this morning. Some pedestrians shouted to the animal and becoming frightened he started on a mad race down the thoroughfare. The wagon struck one of the Northwestern gates and broke off the counter balance and battered up a hydrant near by. One of the wheels was smashed in the collision and the horse fell and slid several feet before he could get up again. Jack Cronin had him by the bit. The animal was not injured.

Lock 131 Feet High. The lock to be placed in the Dan River canal will be 131 feet high, the highest in the world.

ALLEGED PRESIDENT
IS SHORT $100,000

Man Regarded as Wealthy Plunger on Stock Market Resigns From Office of Trust.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 9.—The announcement of the resignation of William B. Given, president of the Lancaster County Railway and Light company, and the discovery of a discrepancy in his accounts of over $100,000, caused a sensation here.

The statement was made by officers of the company, which owns all the trolley, electric and gas concerns in operation in this city. Given was also president and a director of the Columbia Trust company, and he has resigned these offices.

Several months ago the stockholders made a change in the management of the railway and light company, although Given was retained as nominal president, and put an expert accountant on the books. Given was confronted with the situation and, it is reported, confessed his guilt. In a large part he has made restitution, and the stockholders will not suffer a severe loss.

Given was regarded as a man of great wealth and a plunger in the stock market. He has been noted as an operator on an extensive scale in Philadelphia and New York.

His slump during the last year and particularly in recent months, carried with it such heavy losses that Given was unable to meet the demands of his brokers for margins and his accounts were closed out. His operations are reported to have been large in Steel, Consolidated Lake Superior, Copper, Union Pacific and Southern Railway.

The vice president of the Columbia Trust company said that it will in no way be affected by Mr. Given's financial troubles, as he did not owe the company a dollar. As yet no legal proceedings have been instituted.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Berlin, Oct. 9.—The officials of the German foreign office say there is not the least foundation for the report, published in the United States yesterday, that all the German warships in American waters have been ordered to concentrate off the island of Jamaica. In view of recent events at Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela, it is added that no new case of dissatisfaction with the conduct of President Castro has arisen.

THE PRESIDENT HOUSE CLEANING

AN AWFUL STORM

New York City Is Suffering from the Fiercest Gale Ever Recorded in Father Knickerbocker's Home. No Let Up to the Downpour of Rain.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) New York, Oct. 9.—The most terrible downpour of rain this city has ever experienced in years has raged for twenty-four hours and at nine this morning it showed no signs of subsiding. The records of the weather bureau show no greater precipitation for any one day.

Business Suspended. Only the necessary business is being transacted and the streets look deserted. The damage is heavy in the outlying districts. There is almost a complete cessation of the suburban traffic and thousands of people living about the Bronx were unable to get to work today. Many cellars are flooded in this city and thousands of dollars worth of merchandise is damaged. The pressure of water in the sewers has caused many of the manholes to be blown up and the water rushed out the pipes like geysers.

Streets Covered. When the residents at the locality about Harrison avenue, and Wall street and in the dwellings for twelve square blocks around it awoke they found the streets filled with water. Hundreds of families were imprisoned in their homes and unable to obtain any food. Some men had rigged up rafts and had earned considerable money in rowing up to houses and going on errands for the occupants. The damage by the storm in that section alone will not be less than a hundred thousand dollars.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Peking, Oct. 9.—Dispatches from Newchangsang yesterday announced that Russia instead of taking steps to evacuate Manchuria have begun work on extensive government buildings and are rushing the works to completion with all possible haste. Another Russian gunboat has also been added to the fleet there. Before the departure of the great Russian fleet for southern Korea joint military and naval maneuvers will be held on a great scale conducted near Port Arthur all the ninety warships participating in the great review planned.

SIX SHIPPING
POINTS FOR BEETS

Arranged for Rock County Growers—Parts of Cars Must Be Weighed.

The following will be of interest to sugar beet men. Growers who have only parts of cars will be obliged to weigh their crop before loading, but full cars will be loaded and then weighed on the railway scales, same as heretofore. The loading points for farmers who will ship from Janesville headquarters are Grundy's crossing, near county farm, St. Mary's avenue, North Main street near depot, brick yards siding, cement post factory and Spring Brook near the canning factory. It is estimated that there are five hundred acres planted to sugar beets within five miles of the city. This year's harvest has been successfully started and the outlook is good for an excellent yield from Rock county.

Grievances of Women Are Aired at Joliet Convention of Illinois Suffrage Association.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Joliet, Ill., Oct. 9.—The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association met in this city, the president, Mrs. Kate Hughes of Table Rock, Ill., presiding.

"Grievances of Women Today and Their Remedy," was the topic on which Mrs. Hughes in her annual address spoke. She said in part:

"What are our grievances? In sixteen states a wife has no right to her own earnings, and the husband can collect the same for his own use. In eight states she has no right to an interest in the estate her husband owned at their marriage, and at his death she has no dower therein. In no state in the union, if the wife dies first, can she bequeath any part of her property which she, as wife, had helped her husband to amass.

"In thirty-six states a wife has no right to her own children, for the law gives the father legal control and guardianship of them. And we are taxed both in season and out of season to help support a government in which we can have no voice.

At the afternoon session papers were read by Mrs. Eva Munson Smith on "Work Done Among the Rising Generation Through the Medal Contests" and on "Educational Features of the Association." The feature of the session was the debate on "Tax Paying as Contribution for Woman's Voting," between Mrs. Marietta Jones and Mrs. Cora Brown of Chicago. A paper on "Woman's Ballot a Necessity" was read by the Rev. George McGinnis. An address by Catherine Goggin on "Educational Qualification for Woman's Voting" followed.

At the evening session there was an address by Mrs. Olympia Brown, president of the Wisconsin State Equal Suffrage association.

TEN THOUSAND
DODGE SERVICE

An Unusually Large Number Evade Their Military Service in Germany This Year.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Berlin, Oct. 9.—A military journal says that 10,000 young men, eligible for military services, who have not reported for enlistment this year, have been sentenced in contumacy. It is presumed they are out of the country. This number is more than twice as many as usual. The military paper does not give any reasons for this extraordinary desertion; but it is probably due to the frequent publication of incidents of the brutality of the noncommissioned officers and others toward private in the army.

CHINA RATIFIES
AMERICAN PACT

Minister Conger Sends Word That Treaty Was Signed at Shang-hai Thursday.

GIVEN TWO PORTS

Abolishes Levies Upon Goods in Transit, and Allows Americans Many Privileges.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Washington, Oct. 9.—Minister Conger has informed the state department from Shanghai that the commercial treaty between the United States and China had been signed. It now only remains for the United States senate to ratify it to settle the most important negotiations the government has had with China, as well as to dispose of America's principal interest in the complications in Manchuria.

By the terms of the treaty the United States is granted two new ports in Manchuria. This has been the principal feature of the negotiations which involved the government at Washington in the effort to have Russia withdraw her troops from the province.

Russia Is Satisfied.

It is true that Russia has made categorical replies to the inquiries of the state department regarding her intention to withdraw from Manchuria, and these replies have been satisfactory.

Having withdrawn its objection to the treaty between the United States and China, if it ever did object, Russia has removed all cause for friction with this government.

On moral ground, and to enable China to keep all her treaty obligations, this government would prefer to see Russia fulfill its promise to withdraw from Manchuria, but this is no longer a matter which vitally concerns the United States or gives it cause to interfere with further representations to Russia.

Grants Two Ports.

China has signed the treaty which it was said Russia would not permit to be signed. The United States is to have two new ports in Manchuria for American trade. This is all that America demanded, and so long as Russia occupied Manchuria does not interfere with United States trade there no further effort will be made from Washington to hold the czar to his promises. The European powers may fight that question to a finish in their own way.

The negotiations between China and the United States which culminated in the treaty signed at Shanghai were initiated under the provisions of article XI of the final protocol, signed by the powers at Peking Sept. 7, 1901, terminating the anti-foreign outbreak of the preceding year.

MASONS MEET IN CREAM CITY

Grand Commandery Knights Templar of Wisconsin Hold Conclave Next Week—Janesville Men To Go.

M. Ehringer of Hanover and Thomas Howe, among others, will attend the notable gathering of Masons which will occur next week in Milwaukee when the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, of Wisconsin, will hold its forty-fifth annual convocation. The meetings will be held in the Masonic building in the Cream City beginning next Tuesday, October 13th, and lasting for two days. There are twenty-eight commanderies in Wisconsin and these have a membership of 3,400. A number of Janesville men, prominent in Masonic circles, expect to be present at the convocation. Racine will send sixty members and Watertown, Waukesha and a number of other towns will also send delegates. The opinion of many Masons is that R. H. Ormsby of Milwaukee will be elected to the office of grand commander in place of Albert E. Reid, who died last April. Ormsby will preside at the ceremonies next week.

Choir Boys Entertained. The boys of the Presbyterian church choir were pleasantly entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. J. G. Rexford, of Sinclair street. HOLSTEIN COWS ARE THE BEST

MUCH MALINGED BEAST.

MR. GARDINER, OF DARIEN

Tells of the Value of the Animal as a
Milk Producer of Good Quality.

To the Editor:

An excerpt from a Chicago daily of late date (Record Herald), containing a most unjust stricture on Holsteins lacking in nourishment, been handed me; and, in the interests of justice, I ask space in your columns for a brief reply. The excerpt is headed "The Holstein Must Go", and the pertinent part is as follows:

"The Holstein cow was dragged into the pure milk campaign yesterday. Chief Milk Inspector Thomas F. Gray, declared the milk from Holsteins lacking in nourishment. 'The Holsteins must go,' he said. 'The babies of Chicago demand it. The trouble with Holsteins is that they give a big quantity of milk, and that the quality, therefore, is inferior. Farmers should have Jerseys, Ayrshires or Durhams.'"

Not Posted

While Mr. Gray may be entirely familiar with Chicago ward politics, I have serious doubts as to his familiarity with dairy cattle; and I am sure that when it comes to feeding babies, a man who recommends the Jersey cow—a cow giving small quantities of milk very much richer in fat than in milk of the human mother, milk so rich that it would induce dysentery at once—does not know what he is talking about. If a man were to choose a foster mother to nurse his child, he would choose a strong, healthy woman, with plenty of vitality. If he must use the cow as foster mother, and can select himself, he will choose a strong healthy vigorous cow, of that breed which gives milk nearest in composition to the milk of the human mother.

Analysis

The average composition of thousands of analyses of human milk shows less than 3 per cent fat, and 9 per cent of solids not fat. The average analysis of cow's milk the world over, cows with Jersey blood being excepted, is a little above 3.5 per cent fat, and 9.5 per cent solids not fat. During the past two years alone, more than 1,200 Holstein Friesian cows of all ages have been officially tested for a period of at least one week by the various State Experiment stations; and, with every milking thus tested, the average per cent of fat for all the milk taken in bulk is found to be 3.4 per cent.

The Tests

It is thus seen that while the milk of the Holstein Friesian cow exceeds the milk of the human mother considerably in per cent of fat, the excess is not enough to be injurious to the children. Under the auspices of the Physicians and Surgeons' association of Chicago, there has been established at DeKalb, Ill., a large dairy for the production of certified milk for infants and invalids, this milk selling at wholesale for several times the price of common milk, and the cows used are almost entirely of Holstein Friesian blood. The physicians of Chicago have learned that there is such a thing as vital force in milk, that some milk shows this more than others, and that Holstein Friesian milk shows it most of all.

Carlisle's Opinion

Speaking of the matter, Professor Carlisle, of the Wisconsin Agricultural College, said: "The point I wish to make here is that there is such a thing as vitality in milk, and that it is of equal, if not greater, importance than its chemical composition, especially for the milk supply of cities; and there can be no question but that the vitality of milk is closely associated with the vitality of the animal producing it. Strong, vigorous cows, such as the Holstein Friesians and milking Shorthorns and some few families of the Jersey and Guernsey breeds, are animals that are bound to be required for this purpose. The physicians recognize the importance of a strong vital temperament in the human mother and I do not see why it should not apply with equal force to the cows."

City Dealers

The city milk dealer will always assert that the farmer is at fault in the milk supplied, and is always demanding milk richer in butter fat. He wishes this, not that he may retail it as it comes in, but that he may skin off a part of the cream to sell as cream, and yet have fat enough left in the milk to pass inspection. The farmers and dairy men prefer Holstein Friesian cows because they are large, healthy and vigorous, and give large quantities of most excellent milk, which averages much above the standard required; and if they can only get it in pure condition, and without watering or skimming, all city mothers will find in Holstein Friesian milk health, strength and vitality for the little ones.

FLORA DE VOSS CO. IN "PRINCESS LOU"

Good-Sized Audience Greeted the Play Last Evening—Matinee Tomorrow.

The Flora De Voss Co. appeared in "The Princess Lou" before a good sized audience last evening. The scene of the play is laid in Kentucky and the plot revolves about a race horse that gives the title to the drama. The entire fortune of the hero of the play is staked upon a race, when it is discovered that the jockey has become intoxicated.

At the last moment "The Mountain Rose," Miss Flora De Voss, appears on the scene and rides the horse to victory. There is considerable shooting and an attempt to blow up the hero with a dynamite cartridge but every effort is frustrated by "The Mountain Rose" and all ends happily in the last act. Tonight the company will appear in the society comedy-drama "The Power of Sin." There will be a matinee, with a comedy bill for ladies and children tomorrow afternoon.

WOULD LOWER STOUGHTON DAM

Rock River Might Be Effected if the Work is Carried Out as Planned.

Farmers of the towns of Dunn, Dunkirk, Pleasant Springs and Blooming Grove in Dane county are much exercised over the dam across the Yaharra at Stoughton. They want it out and claim that if it is removed many thousands of acres of pasture lands now under water, a good portion of the time will be high and dry and suitable to grow hay on.

Held Meeting.

A meeting was held of those interested at Evans hall, McFarland, on Tuesday last to decide what was to be done. Some years ago a similar plan was evolved and every preparation made to purchase the dam and grist mill lower it and thus drain several thousand acres of land that in rainy seasons are under water most of the year. His plan fell through owing to the state law regarding such matters being declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Influence Rock River.

Should this dam be taken out, or lowered it is probable that the Rock river would be influenced and the flow of water here be much more than it is at present. This would of course be only temporary but for heavy storms it would rise much more rapidly than it does now and would also drain away very quickly. It would make the fishing much better above the upper dam in the city as the fish would have the run of the Yaharra from the four lakes about Madison straight to Janesville.

Valuable Lands.

The lands which would be drained in Dane county if the present plans go through are very valuable. In dry seasons they are most excellent pasture lands and in some cases have sold for a $100 an acre. In many cases the farmers have been improving the hay output by adding time hay seed. The wild hay is itself very nutritious but the mixture makes it doubly so.

Buys Mills.

The dam at Stoughton is capable of furnishing 320 horse power 120 which is used in operating the mills. It is thought that if the purchase is made the dam will be lowered and the mills used by the corporation that purchases them for many purposes.

MUST FLAG ALL TRAINS ARRIVING

Operators at the Interlocking Tower
Must Use Hand Signals Until Street is Repaired.

Operators at the Spring Brook Interlocking tower must now get out on the track before every rain time and flag the train, both the North-Western and St. Paul trains must come to a stop and the Interurban as well, for the interlocking and block system was put out of service Wednesday.

This was because of the change of the grade of McKee boulevard which necessitated the disconnecting of the block signals and the apparatus connected with it. The rules of both roads are to the effect that when any block system is out of order hand signals must be used to prevent the chance of accident.

During the day, Operator A. V. Lyle, must come down from the tower, when told that a train is due, and when it comes in sight, must bring it to a full stop, then if the track is clear, the engineer can proceed. At night Operator Phillips must signal with a lantern in the same manner. This method is considerably more arduous than handling the signal levers and the operators will be glad when the system is connected up once more. This probably will not be for two weeks.

REV. VAUGHAN AT SESSION

Of the Baptist Church Held in Portage This Week—Organization in Good Condition.

The Janesville Baptist church has been represented by the Rev. R. M. Vaughan at the thirty-ninth annual session held this week at Portage. Two hundred and twenty-five delegates were present and there were over one hundred and thirty ministers. The report of the secretary, D. W. Three new churches have been organized during the last twelve months and the entire organization is in a prosperous condition, as the debt of $1,600 that existed a year ago has been finally entirely cleared. Eleven new pastors have entered the state union; they are: Rev. Mr. Purkiss, Green Bay; Rev. C. W. Gales, Silver Lake; Rev. Chas. Colby, Lodi; Rev. Mr. Hatch, Eau Claire; Rev. J. Hazen, Green Bay; Rev. B. H. Moore, Milwaukee; Rev. Mr. Hamley, Ripon; Rev. Mr. Eaton, Afton; Rev. Mr. Cody, La Crosse; and Rev. E. J. Parsons, Eau Claire.

TOBACCO CROP GOES TO SHEDS

IT GENERALLY COMES OUT BET-TER THAN ANTICIPATED.

GOOD TOBACCO WEATHER EAST

Steady Increase of Acreage in Ohio—
Quality Generally Higher—
Last Lots Hurried to Barn.

While the outlook for tobacco was dark in New England a few weeks ago, it has now materially changed and the situation is much improved. Most of the growers in the New England states are feeling better this week over the conditions and are generally contented. On account of the harvest being so late there has been fear of frost. This has caused all growers to hurry in their crops and by far the greatest part of this year's tobacco in that section is now safely housed. The crop is expected to be a little short of the average this year, yet the plants have reached the barns in unusually good condition considering the bad prospect earlier in the summer. It is now thought that the middle and later cuttings will cure even better than the early crops. Considerable shade tobacco is yet to go into the sheds but almost no fear of frost is felt with this crop.

In New York State.

The yield of the new crop in New York may be, it is true, somewhat below the average in quantity, but yet it is well ahead of what was anticipated a month ago. Men in a position to know say that the quality is unusually high and the growers are hopeful as regards prices. In this state as in other sections, the harvesting has been delayed much by weather conditions. In some parts of the country where by September 12th the cutting is over, there this year remains a large quantity on the stem. The last few days it has been approaching maturity rapidly and should be ready for housing almost immediately.

Slight Frost in Ohio.

In Ohio there has been exceptionally fine weather during the last few days and this has enabled the farmers to hurry with their cutting, so that in this state also the greater portion of the crop is now in. There was a slight indication of frost the other day but no damage to the tobacco occurred. The total yield of the state is expected to be but little below the average, for while large sections have been effected from draught yet in other parts the crops have been unusually large, while the acreage planted to tobacco shows a steady gain each succeeding year. Quality will be above the average this season it is thought.

DAVE BROWN HAS ODD DOG FOR PET

Favorite Breed of German Prince—Faithful Animal Guards the Feed Store.

In the enumeration of Janesville dogs in these columns the other day one canine of special importance was left out. He is the "long dog" belonging to Dave Brown, and he is the pride of his owner's heart, being about four feet long, more or less, and half a foot high. The only trouble is that one cannot tell, when the animal is quiet, whether he is standing up or laying down. His owner calls him a Dachshound and points to the fact that this breed was a favorite of Prince Henry and when the latter visited these parts Mr. Brown received circulars, clippings and letters from his many friends telling of Prince Henry's liking for that kind of a dog. Mr. Brown first had two of these dogs and they looked just alike. One got run over when they were pups, and the dogs were so similar in appearance that Mr. Brown doesn't know yet which one was killed.

Fuller, Star Jockey

From Stable Boy to Turf Favorite In a Year
His Record.

A year ago Grover Cleveland Fuller was a stable boy earning $30 a month. Today he is one of the star jockeys of America, with an income approximating $50,000 a year.

That is to say, he has in ten months by his own skill and perseverance lifted himself from obscurity to a position on the American running turf where his talents earn for him as much money in a year as is paid in salary to the president of the United States.

In one short season he has won the Futurity and Suburban handicaps, besides a number of lesser stakes, and achieved a prominence which few other boys have attained even after years of hard and conscientious effort and which no living jockey has equaled in so short a time.

Fuller rode his first winning race at the Lakeside track, near Chicago, in November last. Since then he has flashed first past the judges' stand many times, and he now has nearly 300 winning mounts to his credit, a record unparalleled for a jockey in his first year.

It is estimated that Fuller has won $250,000 for the owners of the horses he has ridden. For winning one of the big races of this season he received $8,000 out of the stake, a sum probably never equaled as a gift to a winning jockey in the history of the turf. So quick was his leap into the ranks of the star jockeys that early in the year Tim Sullivan, the New York state senator, engaged the first call on his services at a fee larger than the annual salary of hundreds of bank presidents throughout the country.

And Frank Farrell, owner of Blues and other fast campaigners, paid a sum nearly as large as this as a retainer for the second call, as also later did E. R. Thomas, the millionaire turfman, when Farrell relinquished his claim.

Successful jockeys of the present day in American racing are apt to be of one of two kinds when they are not in riding clothes—either over-dressed or so carelessly attired as to make them inconspicuous. Grover Cleveland Fuller is one of the latter type. A boy of eighteen, about five feet four inches in height, wearing a soft brown hat and such a suit of clothes as an ordinary errand boy would don going to his work—that is the first impression of Fuller.

Once you look at his face, however, your attention is arrested. It is broad, the cheek bones are high, the complexion sallow, as if from hard living rather than from hard training, prematurely grave, prematurely serious, as if the hand of time, with its cares, anxieties and worries, had been laid heavily upon him and all too soon.

But when you speak to Fuller of something that interests him the change that comes over his grave face brings to light the real boyishness that has been overlaid and almost crushed out of him by the life he has led in the past year. Then, too, you see his best features revealed. His lips part, and you see two rows of strong, fine white teeth, and his big blue eyes, whose very size add to the gravity of his face, light with pleasure. A great diamond set in a plain gold ring that he wears on the third finger of his left hand is the only visible evidence of his prosperity and the only sign of luxury about him.

While Fuller's good points are many, he also has his weak side. Recently he appeared at a track in an unfit condition. His manager reprimanded him sharply, and Fuller promised to follow faithfully the quiet mode of living that had previously marked his career.

Fuller was born in Dewitt, Ia., in 1885. When he was four years old he was taken to Chicago by his parents, where he lived until last fall. He comes naturally by his small size and light weight, for his mother and father are both small. His father is in the furniture business in Chicago.

GOLF GAINING IN POPULARITY

Gives Exercise of the Kind That is Needed by Mankind to Enjoy Health.

"Is golf gaining ground," said a prominent Janesville golfer yesterday. "Well I should think so. Just look at the accounts in all the papers over the country and then the question is answered. Golf is more popular today than ever before. Just look at its benefits. Why even Rockefeller tried it and it started hair growing on his head which was as bald as a billiard ball before."

Gaining Ground. "Yes sir," Golf will continue to gain ground all over the country. The Canny Scots knew what they were doing when they improved on shinty and called it "goluf." That practice of knocking the little balls about the greens and swearing when you lose one gives man three great benefits. It gives him exercise. It gives him thinking exercise in trying to find new swear words and his lungs exercise breathing fresh air and swearing the words he has thought. Yes, golf is a good thing."

I Just Love It. One enthusiastic fair golfer expressed herself very nicely when she said "I just love it. It is the finest game that ever was and then think of all the good times we have at the golf club. I hope the game continues to be as popular as it is now although sometimes there are too many people out for a good time. Still I think golf is a very fine game."

Links Busy. During the past summer the links have been busy. Scarcely a morning, afternoon or even until dark at night have the links been vacant. Even rain has not always been the cause for stopping the game in progress and the Janesville players are like all the other players throughout the country enthusiastic about their course and players.

Beautiful Grounds. Men who have seen the grounds of golf clubs all over the country go into exclamations of delight at the Janesville links. The stretch of natural ground with its grassy slopes and the raising hills and valleys all make the course an ideal one. For persons who are not even versed in golf the club house has its attractions and the wide porch and easy chairs are more than comfortable after a day of toil in a down town office. Many hotel business men have joined the club this past summer and they are as loyal as the Janesville people in praising the course. Janesville is indeed fortunate in this valuable adjunct to the ever growing city life.

CLAIMS DAMAGES FROM A RAILWAY

HERBERT SMITH WAITS FOUR YEARS TO DO IT.

HE ALLEGES ILL TREATMENT

Claims He Was Put Off a Train Beyond Station by Conductor, and Was Badly Frozen.

Herbert U. Smith, of the town of Rock, this county, has sued the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company, claiming damages to the amount of $1510.00. In his complaint, he alleges that February 7, 1899, he went to the ticket office of the defendant, in this city, about three o'clock in the morning, and tried to purchase a ticket to Afton; that the ticket agent, or person in charge of the office, told him that a train would leave in a few minutes, and Mr. Smith could pay the conductor in charge of the train the necessary fare, as the ticket office was closed for the night; that in pursuance of these directions of the person in charge of the office, he got on a freight train of the defendant company, and paid the conductor 18 cents, the usual fare to Afton.

Refused to Stop
Mr. Smith further alleges that when the train, on which he was riding, arrived at Afton, the conductor in charge refused to stop so as to allow him to get off but carried him about three and one-half miles south of Afton, where the conductor stopped the train and ordered him to get off; that Mr. Smith refused to do this and requested the conductor to carry him to Beloit, where the train was going or to back the train up to Afton; that the conductor refused to comply with his requests; that the night was very cold and dark; and he was very clad; that the conductor compelled him to leave the train although it was about four o'clock in the morning and very cold, the thermometer registering about 25 degrees below zero and the ground being covered with snow; that in consequence thereof he was compelled to walk back to Afton and on the way froze both of his feet and suffered greatly from the cold; that he was confined to his bed about ten days thereafter; that he was unable to walk for several months without suffering great pain; that he was obliged to employ a physician who furnished him medical care and attendance expending about $10.00 therefor.

Permanently Injured
Mr. Smith further says that he is permanently injured in his body and health by reason of said acts of the defendant; that he was unable to do any work for a period of about four months; and that he gave the defendant due notice, as required by the laws of this state, of the damage thus caused to him.

Papers Served
The summons and complaint was served on one defendant, September 15, ultimo, William Smith, and H. J. Maxfield, being the attorneys for the plaintiff. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, by Thos. S. Nolan, of this city, and H. H. Field, of Chicago, has answered the complaint of Mr. Smith, denying all its material allegations. The case will probably be tried at the November term of the circuit court of this county.

PRETTY WEDDING LAST WEDNESDAY

Miss Gertrude Masterson Wedded to Mr. Earle Atkinson—House Beautifully Decorated.

On Wednesday last occurred one of the prettiest of home weddings this fall at the home of Mr. John Masterson, No. 4 Dickson street, when his daughter, Miss Gertrude Masterson was united in marriage to Mr. Earle Atkinson by the Reverend Warner. The house had been beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, trailing vines and dahlias and nasturtiums and the ceremony was performed in the parlor of the residence where an arch of trailing vines, asparagus, ferns, and dahlias had been erected. Miss Masterson was accompanied by Miss Edith Cowan as maid of honor and Mr. Louis Warner of Shoreline was best man for the groom. Reverend Warner said the words that made the happy couple man and wife and after the congratulations of the thirty intimate friends and relatives a dainty three course luncheon was set forth. The dining room where this repast was served was tastefully decorated with dahlias and ferns with bright colored autumn leaves in profusion. The scene was a beautiful one and the repast served by Mrs. Phillip Rutter was delicious. Miss Mamie Cowan, Miss Bertha Rutter and Miss Mary Atkinson helped in serving the repast. During the ceremony Mrs. Dr. Richards played the wedding march. For the winter the young couple will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Masterson, No. 4 Dickson street, but expect to go to housekeeping in the spring. The groom is employed at the Hanson furniture factory where he is very popular with his fellow employees.

FIRST LECTURE BY PROF. WRIGHT

Opening Meeting of the Art League This Afternoon at the High School Building.

Professor Wright of Beloit college this afternoon delivered the first of his series of lectures on the Art and Greek Mythology before the ladies of the Art League. The lecture was given in the science room of the high school and was illustrated with lantern slides. Professor Wright has spent much time in Greece studying the modern Greek and the ancient so that he is thoroughly conversant with his subject and the country he talks of. His talks of last year were most eagerly looked forward to by the ladies of the Art League and the attendance this afternoon showed that the interest had, if anything, increased. Professor Wright is a charming speaker and his interpretation of the ancient Greek history is most pleasing to students of that period in early history. The officers of the Art League for the present year are: President—Mrs. Charles Tarrant. Vice president—Mrs. James Mills. Recording secretary—Mrs. E. O. Kimberley. Corresponding secretary—Mrs. M. D. McGowan. Treasurer—Mrs. Wm. Burr. Auditor—Mrs. W. H. Ashcraft.

JOHN DECKER KICKED BY HORSE

BLOW FRACTURED HIS SKULL IN TWO PLACES.

FOUND STRUGGLING IN MUD

Near Watering Trough About Eight O'clock Last Night—Never Regained Consciousness.

granted that he had gone over to visit with some one in the vicinity. The terrible condition in which he was found was soon explained. One of the horses was missing from the barn and was found after a short time contentedly grazing along the roadside. A wound in the left temple near the orbit of the eye was plainly traceable to the calf of a horse's hoof.

Never Regained Consciousness
An examination showed that in addition to the fracture of the skull in the region of the left temple, there was an internal fracture above the nose and the injured man was bleeding profusely from the mouth. He never regained consciousness after the blow was received. Dr. Woods could offer small hopes for his recovery. Even if the patient escapes concussion of the brain or if the pressure of blood from the internal hemorrhage can be relieved.

John Decker, the well known tobacco dealer and resident of Janesville, was found bleeding and struggling in the mud near a watering trough not far from his barn, by a neighbor, who was passing through the premises about eight o'clock last night. The neighbor ran to call for assistance and medical aid was summoned with all possible haste. So terrible were the struggles of the injured man that his son, Fred Decker, Harry Morse, Charles Wright, and others who arrived early were unable to control him, and Dr. Woods after his arrival immediately sent for Dr. Farnsworth to secure chloroform and hasten to the scene. It was a half hour before the anesthetic had any noticeable effect.

Kicked by Horse
Mr. Decker took a lantern and went out to the barn to water his horses at half past seven o'clock. When he did not return at eight o'clock nothing was thought of it by the family, it being taken for granted that he was still in the barn. When the horse was found in the mud, it was still dark and the family was still asleep.

How Accident Happened
The horse which Mr. Decker had led to the trough had lately been suffering from a small cough on one of its hind feet. He had a habit of feeling of it to ascertain if it was growing any larger and it is thought that he had stooped down and was in the act of doing this when he received the blow.

Removed to Hospital
The patient was taken to the hospital in the ambulance early this morning. Dr. Woods remained with him most of the night and spent most of the morning caring for him. Dr. Woods this afternoon stated that the condition of Mr. Decker was practically unchanged. The flow of blood from the mouth has ceased but consciousness has not returned and the man continues to struggle. No sound comes from his lips. A consultation of physicians was held this afternoon. The chance of recovery is a very small one.

JANESVILLE HAS TWO OFFICERS

In New Industrial and Mercantile Association—Elected Yesterday—Don Farnsworth Treasurer.

Don Farnsworth was elected to the office of treasurer of the Wisconsin Industrial and Mercantile association, which was held in Milwaukee yesterday. Mr. Farnsworth withdrew his name as candidate for the presidency on account of lack of time and for business reasons, but was unanimously elected to the other office. D. W. Hayes was elected a director for three years, so Janesville has an excellent representation in the new association. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and the prospect is good for the new state organization. It is thought that the Badgers will have as strong an association as any state in the union and extensive plans are under way to that effect. The following were the officers elected yesterday: President—E. A. Wadhams, Milwaukee; vice-president—J. T. Murphy, Superior; secretary—L. C. Whitney, Milwaukee; treasurer—Don Farnsworth, Janesville. Following are the directors elected: Stanley B. Smith, Janesville, one year; T. G. Murray, Madison, one year; Don Farnsworth, Janesville, one year; E. A. Wadhams, Milwaukee, one year; L. G. Bohmrich, Milwaukee, one year; J. W. Grove, Madison, two years; H. C. Stivers, Superior, two years; Thomas G. Boggs, Milwaukee, two years; D. W. Hayes, Janesville, three years; D. W. PRETTY PARTY LAST EVENING

Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters of St. Mary's Court, Entertained Last Evening.

One of the pleasantest dancing parties of the present fall was held last night at Central hall, under the auspices of the St. Mary's Court, No. 175, Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters. The big hall was resplendent with autumn trophies and the big pumpkins that peeped out from behind stalks of corn and dainty leaves of the maple just turning under Jack Frost's care added to the material beauty of the scene. Ninety couples danced to the strains of Johnny Smith's orchestra and enjoyed themselves as they always do at entertainments of this court.

Many Committees
To the ladies of the committees in charge and their efficient management of the whole evening belongs the credit of the delightful party. On the arrangement committee were Mesdames D. W. Hayes, E. J. Schmidley, Nellie Walker and W. C. Dooley. On the reception committee were Mesdames J. W. Hogan, J. W. McCue, Con Macdonald, W. T. Finbert, O. W. Morrissey, J. J. Kelly, Charles Daly, Horatio Nelson, D. A. Ryan and Misses Edith Dilzer, Anna Seelye and Anna Doran.

Good Floor Committee
C. M. McKeligue was chairman of this committee and his able assistants were Alderman Edward Connel, William Ryan, Edward Ryan, Edward Murphy, William Bowen, Thomas Hefferan and H. O. Schmidley. It was a most charming party and the dancing continued until the wee small hours.

BUCKWHEAT IS LATE THIS YEAR

THRESHING WAS DELAYED THREE WEEKS BY WET WEATHER.

SHIPMENTS COMING SOON

Much Rain in Canada and the East in Sections Where Crop is Grown.

Buckwheat is scarce this year. The Blodgett Milling company has not received any as yet and although the shipments may start by next week, there is nothing definite known.

Wet Weather Stops Threshing
The cause of the scantiness of the supply is because of the extreme wet weather delaying the thrashing in Canada and the sections of the east where most of the supply comes from.

Three Weeks Late
Not a particle of buckwheat has been ground so far this fall in this vicinity and the shipments of this grain are between two and three weeks behind the average of former years. Last fall the thrashing was under way and the grain coming to Janesville several weeks earlier than this season.

Last Small Grain Harvested
Buckwheat is about the last of the small grains harvested as the later wet spells in the sections where it is grown extensively have put off the thrashing.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "Dr. Nikola," "The Beautiful White Devil," "Pharos, The Egyptian," Etc.

(Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Three rogues, Hayle, Kiltwater and Codd, meet at Singapore. Hayle, who has learned of existence of a treasure at Senkor Wat, old Chinese ruins near Chinese border, Hayle only half believes account, but nevertheless agrees to join in search.

PART II.—Reaching Senkor Wat, the men make their way through the ancient streets and find the once splendid palace. Toward dusk after a most tedious search they come upon secret entrance to underground vaults, in which are discovered great quantities of bar gold and uncut rubies and sapphires. Hayle fills both hands with gems and the men make their way outside again. On reaching camp they find their two Chinese servants slain and horribly mutilated. Chinese fashion. During the night Hayle secures treasure and steals away into the jungle.

PART III.—Utterly exhausted and unconscious, Hayle is found by English officers near frontier station of Nampoung. As soon as he leaves for Rangoon and thence to England.

PART IV.—Two months later another officer at Nampoung calls out on a hunt comes Kiltwater and Codd. Kiltwater explains they were traders who had fallen into hands of Chinese who had put out his own eyes. After recovering somewhat from effects of exposure and tortures they set off in pursuit of Hayle.

CHAPTER I.—George Fairfax relates how he became a detective in Australia and finally came to open up an office in London.

CHAPTER II.—Kiltwater and Codd try to secure Fairfax's services. They represent themselves as missionaries returned from China and a rich native patron turned over to them on his death a great fortune which was stolen by a thief (Hayle) at the mission. Fairfax almost concludes not to take case.

CHAPTER III.—Miss Kiltwater calls on Fairfax in behalf of her uncle and succeeds in persuading him to take up the case. Later in the day the Santa Cruz Mining company, seeks to get Fairfax to go to Argentina to shadow a manager who is suspected of embezzlement. Detective replies he now has case on which will engage him for some time. Fairfax at a leading jeweler's learns that an unusually large amount of stones have just been received, and gets description of man of whom they were bought.

CHAPTER IV.—One evening Fairfax finds himself followed by two ruffians, but manages to elude them. Suspecting they will repeat performance he goes forth the next night, but with one of his most powerful men but a little behind. Finding that he is indeed followed, Fairfax turns into a dark street and turns about and confronts ruffians who confess they have been hired to brain him. Finding where they were to meet and place to keep appointment, he conceals himself and is much surprised to see Mr. Hayle approach.

CHAPTER V.

I flatter myself that I am a man who is not easily disconcerted, but for the second time that day I was completely taken aback. I had watched that cab so closely, had followed its progress so carefully, that it seemed impossible Hayle could have escaped from it. Yet there was the fact, apparent to all the world, that he had got away. I looked from the cab to the cabman and then at my own driver, who had descended from his perch and was standing beside me.

"Well, I wouldn't have believed it," I said aloud, when I had recovered somewhat from my astonishment.

My own driver, who had doubtless begun to think that the sovereign I had promised him was in danger, was inclined to be somewhat bellicose. It appeared as if he were anxious to make a personal matter of it, and in proof of this he sternly demanded of his rival what he had done with his fare.

"You don't think I've ate him, do yer?" asked that worthy. "What's it got to do with me what a fare does? I set 'im down, same as I should do you, and now I am on my way 'ome. Look arter your own fare, and take him 'ome and put him ter bed, but don't yer 'ome a botherin' me. I've done the best day's work I've ever 'ad in my life, and if so be the pair of yer like to come into the pub here, well, I don't know as I won't stand yer both a two of Scotch cold. It looks as if 'twould kind a cheer the gaffer up a bit, seein' as how he's disappointed like. Come on now!"

It is one of my principles, and to it I feel that I owe a considerable portion of my success, that I never allow my pride to stand in the way of my business. The most valuable information is not unfrequently picked up in the most unlikely places, and for this reason I followed my own Jehu and his rival into the public-house in question. The man was visibly elated by the good stroke of business he had done that night, and was inclined to be convivial.

"E was a proper sort of bloke," he said as we partook of our refreshment. "E give me a liver, 'e did, an' I wishes as 'ow I could meet another like 'im every day."

"They do say as how one man's mutton is another man's poison," retorted my driver, who, in spite of the entertainment he was receiving, visibly regarded the other with disfavor. "If you'd a give us the tip, I'd 'ave 'ad my suvering. As it is I don't take it friendly like that you should a' bilked us."

"Yer can take it as yer darned well please," said the other, as he spoke placing his glass upside down on the counter, in order to prove beyond contradiction that it was empty. I immediately ordered a repetition, which was supplied. Thereupon the cabman continued:

"When I 'as a bit of business ter do yer must understand that I do it, and that no man can say as I doesn't. A gent gets into my kelly and sez he: 'Drive me until I tell yer to stop, and go as fast as I can,' sez he. 'Take every back street yer know of, and come out somewhere Hoxton way. I'm not particular so long as I go fast, an' I don't get collared by the keb that,' after us. If yer help me to give 'im the slip there's a five-pound note for yer trouble.' Well, sez I to myself, this is a proper bit of business and there and then I sets off as fast as the old 'orse and take us. We turns up Southampton street, and you turns up after us. As we was agoin' down 'Enrietta street I asked him to let me 'ave a look at his five-pound note, for I didn't want no bank of Fashion or any of that sort of truck shoved into me, you'll understand. 'You needn't be suspicious, cabby,' sez he, 'I'll make it suverings, if yer like, and half a one over for luv.' I told him it would, he give me two pound ten in advance and away we went again. We weren't more than 'arf a mile away from here—thank yer, sir, I don't mind if I do, it's cold drivin'—well, as I was a sayin' we wasn't more than 'arf a mile away from here, when the gent he stands up and sez to me: 'Look here, Kebby, turn the next corner pretty sharp and slow down at the first bye-street, you come to. Then I'll jump out. 'Right yer are, guv'nor,' sez I, and with that he 'ands me up the other two pound ten and the extra half suvering. I fobbed it and whipped up the old 'oss. Next moment we was around the corner, and a-drivin' as if we was a tryin' to ketch a train. Then we comes to a little side street, an' I slows down. Out 'e jumps and down he goes along a side street as if the devil was arter him. Then I drives on my way and pulls up 'ere. Bilked you were, guv'nor, and I don't mind sayin' so, but business is business, and five pound ten nint to be picked up every day. I guess the old woman will be all there when I get 'ome to-night."

"That's all very well, cabby," I said, "but it's just likely you want to add another sovereign to that five-pound ten. If you do I don't mind putting another in your way. I tell you that I want to catch the man I was after to-night. He's as big a thief as ever walked the earth, and if you will help me to put my hand upon him, you'll be doing a service, not only to me, but to the whole country at large."

"What is it you want me to do?" he asked, suspiciously. "He treated me fair, and he'll take it mean of me if I help you to nab him."

"I don't want you to do anything but to drive me to the side street where you put him down. Then you can take your sovereign and be off home as quick as you like. Do you agree?"

He hesitated for a space in which a man could have counted 20, and then set his glass upon the counter. "I'll do it," he said. "I'll drive yer there, not for the suvering, but for the good of the country yer speaks about. Come on."

I gave my own man his money, and then followed the other out to his cab. He mounted to his box, not without some help, and we presently set off. Whether it was the effect of the refreshment he had imbibed, or whether it was mere elation of spirits I cannot say, the fact, however, remains that for the whole of the journey, which occupied ten or twelve minutes, he howled vociferously. A more joyous cabman could scarcely have been discovered in all that part of London. At last he pulled his horse to a standstill, and descended from his seat.

"This 'ere's the place," he said, "and that's the street he bolted down. Yer can't mistake it. Now let's have a look at yer suvering, guv'nor, and then I'll be off home to bed, and it's about time too."

I paid him the sum I had promised him, and then made my way down the narrow street, in the direction Hayle had taken. It was not more than a couple of hundred yards long, and was hemmed in on either hand by squallid cottages. As if to emphasize the misery of the locality, and perhaps in a measure to account for it, at the further end I discovered a gin-palace, whose glaring lights illuminated the streets on either hand with brazen splendor. A small knot of loafers were clustered on the pavement outside the public, and these were, exactly the men I wanted. Addressing myself to them I inquired how long they had been in their present position.

"Best part of an hour, guv'nor," said one of them, pushing his hands deep down into his pockets, and executing a sort of double shuffle as he spoke. "Ain't don't any harm 'ere, I 'ope. We was 'opin' as 'ow a gent like yourself would come along in the course of the evening just to ask us if we was thirsty, and wot we'd take for to quench it."

"You shall have something to 'quench' it, if you can answer the questions I am going to ask you," I replied. "Did either of you see a gentleman come down this street, running, about half an hour or so ago?"

"Was he carrying a rug and a bag?" asked one of the men, without hesitation.

"He was," I replied. "He is the man I want. Which way did he go when he left here?"

"He took Jim Boulter's cab," said another man, who had until a few moments before been leaning against the wall. "The Short 'Un was alookin' arter it for 'im, and I heard him call Jimmy myself. He tossed the Short 'Un a bob, he did, when he got in. Such luck don't seem ever to come my way."

"Where is the Short 'Un, as you call him?" I inquired, thinking that it might be to my advantage to interview that gentleman.

"A-drinkin' of his bob in there," the man answered. "Where d'ye think ye'd be a-seein' 'im? Bearin' 'isself proud like a real torf, and at 'is own time they'll be chuckin' 'im out into the gutter, and then 'is wife'll come down, and they'll fight."

an' most like both of 'em'll get jugged before they knows where they is, and come before the beak in the mornin'."

"Look here," I said, "if one of you will go in and induce the gentleman of whom you speak to come out here and talk to me, I would not mind treating the four of you to half a crown."

The words had scarcely left my lips before a deputation had entered the house in search of the gentleman in question. When they returned with him one glance was sufficient to show me that the Short 'Un was in a decidedly inebriated condition. His friends, however, deeming it possible that their chance of appreciating his liberality depended upon his condition being such as he could answer questions with some sort of intelligence, proceeded to shake and pummel him into something approaching sobriety. In one of his lucid intervals I inquired whether he felt equal to telling me in what direction the gentleman who had given him the shilling had ordered the cabman to drive him. He turned the question over and over in his mind, and then arrived at the conclusion that it was "some hotel close to Waterloo."

This was certainly vague, but it encouraged me to persevere.

"Think again," I said; "he must have given you some definite address."

"Now I do remember," said the man, "it seems to me it was Foxwell's hotel, Waterloo Road. That's where it was, Foxwell's hotel. Don't you know it?"

"Foxwell's Hotel is a merry, merry place. When the jolly booze is flowin', flowin' free."

Now chorus, gentlemen.

Having heard all I wanted to, I gave the poor wretches what I had promised them, and went in search of a cab. As good luck would have it I was able to discover one in the City Road, and in it I drove off in the direction of Waterloo. If Hayle were really going to stay the night at Foxwell's hotel, then my labors had not been in vain, after all. But I had seen too much of that gentleman's character of late to put any trust in his statements, until I had verified them to my own satisfaction. I was not acquainted with Foxwell's hotel, but after some little search I discovered it. It was by no means the sort of place a man of Hayle's wealth would be likely to patronize, but remembering that he had particular reasons for not being in evidence just at present, I could understand his reasons for choosing such a hostelry. I accordingly paid off my cabman and entered the bar. Taking the young lady I found there a little on one side, I inquired whether a gentleman had arrived within the last half-hour, carrying a bag and a heavy traveling-rug.

Much to my gratification she replied that such a gentleman had certainly arrived within the past half-hour, and was now at supper in the coffee-room. She inquired whether I would care to see him. I replied in the negative, stating that I would call next day and make myself known to him.

"We are old friends," I said, "and for that reason I should be glad if you would promise me that you will say nothing to him about my coming to-night."

Woman-like the idea pleased her, and she willingly gave the promise I asked.

"If you want to see him you'd better be here early," she said. "He told me when he booked his room that he should be wanting to get away at about ten o'clock to-morrow morning."

"I'll be here well before that," I replied. "If all goes right, I shall call upon him between eight and nine o'clock."

WOMAN YIELDS TO UNCLE SAM

Owner of Annapolis Home Will Move, but Will Seek Damages.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Kate Kealy, who has for more than a year resisted the right of the United States government to oust her from her home on the tract of land required for the extensions being made to the naval academy grounds here, has announced that she will accede to the demands of the government and vacate the premises. She will institute suit for damages for her rights in the property, including the inconvenience to which she claims to have been subjected. Mrs. Kealy has not been out of her house since the improvements began at the naval academy, having previously supplied herself with a stock of provisions and announced to the authorities that she intended to "hold the fort."

Fall Hats and Waists.

BOTH silk and cotton waists are now being shown in the shops, both designed for fall wear. And unquestionably throughout the winter cotton waists will form an important part of the wardrobe. Such heavy, beautiful cottons the dealers have furnished us the last two years, it is no wonder silk for a time had to give way. Whilst white still reigns, we notice colors are showing here and there; the blues, delft and pale blue, and in lines the soft, deep reds, holding their own after the fashion arbiters' decree of white waists only.

The very long shoulder effect must be observed in the waist, either by means of a deep yoke, long, wide shoulder straps, or a collar that shall come well over the seam of the sleeve. And speaking of sleeves, it is difficult to declare positively what is to be the right thing. That they are to be full at the lower part is certain, but whether or not more fulness will be required above the elbow remains to be seen. Present indications point to little increase of fulness at the top.

Trimnings for waists will be varied. Large, unique buttons are effective, especially on dark material, and on rich, dark stuffs black fagoting over white lining also is very effective. Bias and up-and-down tucks of self-material are used on the fall waists, and this ornamentation has the double merit of cheapness and style. Stocks are almost invariably the same material as the waist, and trimmed to correspond with the blouse. Long, stole-like stocks, extending clear to the belt, will probably obtain this winter.

The question of sleeves is the most puzzling point in autumn modes and no one seems to know definitely what we may expect. For some time past there has been a movement toward pushing the fulness up the arm, and many of the summer frocks have shown considerable fulness at the shoulder and suggestions of the oldtime gigot shape.

The yoke is seen, too, upon some of the smartest of the new shirt waists and separate blouses; but here it does not, as a rule, take the extreme pelerine form and is more like the oldtime shirt waist yoke, only with some device to lengthen the shoulder line slightly.

Black-and-white continues with us and the combination is used with very good effect in the turbans that promise to be a noticeable part of fall millinery. These turbans are round, of medium height, and very simply trimmed, consisting well with the tailor costumes described above. Made of white felt splashed with black velvet, or of black and white chenille, they are suitable either for morning or afternoon wear. For evening, they are a little severe. Plumes and quills, used so much during the summer, remain in fashion, the white plume on the black hat is still in good style, and a single black quill on either a light or dark hat. The pompon quill is not so stiff-looking, more becoming, than the quill common during the summer.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP LOSES

San Francisco Refuses to Vote Bonds for Tractor Purchase.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 9.—The election to decide whether the city should issue bonds for buying and running the Geary Street Cable railroad was decided against municipal ownership. The total vote cast was 25,259, of which 14,381 votes were for ownership and 10,755 against. As a two-thirds majority is required, the proposition was beaten by 6,833 votes. The experiment in municipal ownership didn't find popular favor, as the road would have to depend upon the big United Railroad corporations to get transfers to the ferry, and above the interest on the bonds it would cost the city $40,000 a year to operate the road.

THE MI-ONA TREATMENT.

Flesh-Forming Food in Tablet Form That Increases Flesh—Guaranteed By King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co.

The discovery of Mi-ona, the remarkable flesh-forming food that builds up good, healthy, solid flesh and makes thinness and scrawnyness a thing of the past, has revolutionized medical practice in certain lines.

Its power to do all that is claimed for it was so clearly proven to Peoples Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy that they now sell Mi-ona with the understanding that if it fails the purchase price was to be refunded.

King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co. certainly exhibited courage in taking up this method of selling Mi-ona, but the results have fully proven their judgment that the Mi-ona treatment for stomach troubles, emaciation, general weakness and run down condition is the only efficacious and reliable cure.

Mi-ona possesses healing and soothing qualities that makes it especially valuable in cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia. Two or three tablets taken each day in connection with the regular food prove it a true flesh former.

All that many a woman lacks to be positively pretty is a little more flesh on her face. To look haggard or not fat is never becoming. The use of Mi-ona will cure this defect.

With every 50 cent box of Mi-ona that King's Pharmacy and Peoples Drug Co. sells they will give a written promise to refund the money if it does not give an increase in flesh and restore strength. What a trifling cost this is if it makes you well; if it fails, the expense is absolutely nothing.

DOGS AS COMPETENT WITNESSES

Supreme Court of Nebraska Declares Bloodhounds' Evidence Good.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 9.—The competency of bloodhounds as witnesses in criminal prosecutions has been decided by the Supreme court of Nebraska. The case was that of George W. Bratt, convicted of burglary and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. Bratt alleged he was convicted mainly as a result of the bloodhounds trailing him from the place the burglary was committed to his own home, where a stolen purse was found. In his brief filed in behalf of the state Attorney General Prout admits that the dogs are incompetent to take the oath and are not subject to cross examination, but otherwise he maintains they are fit silent witnesses, and as such their testimony is as conclusive as that of a man.

TAKES LIFE TO ESCAPE WANT

Dr. Baker, Unable to Support Family, Shoots Himself.

New York, Oct. 9.—Dr. Kellogg Baker, an insurance agent, 70 years old, shot himself in the right temple at the Everett house. He had been dead some hours before the fact of the suicide became known. Baker lived with his wife in apartments at the St. James hotel, 169 West Forty-Fifth street. Baker, who was at one time wealthy, has been employed for about a year by H. Hale & Son, 128 Broadway. He was also working for a publishing concern, but his income from both sources was insufficient to support himself and his wife in the style they had been accustomed to, and he grew despondent. He leaves a widow, but no children.

LUTHERANS CONDEMN SCHOOLS

Conference Holds Public Institutions Do Not Make Christians.

La Porte, Ind., Oct. 9.—The public schools were denounced at the session of the German Lutheran conference. The matter came up unexpectedly through the request of a minister for advice as to whether it would be best to communicate a member of his church who persistently refused to send his children to the parochial school of the parish. A heated discussion followed. It was declared that the public school was a necessary evil. The conference considered that the object of the public school was to make an educated man, but not a Christian.
